The Week

By H. M. L. Jr.

What answer can we make to the argument of those who say that the world it no better now that it ever was, or ever will be and that men are no better and never will be better than they were in the beginning of time? Certainly at this time the most aggressive of world trends and movements and the two great fires of war burning in Europe and Asia form a strong basis for utter pessimism. A million pools of blood throughout the world reflect the inhumanity that is the flaunted doctrine of the half the great nations of the earth. The practise of logic has declined and propaganda usurps its place and teaches men to love themselves and their kind and hate those different. Lies have always played the grand part in the government of men, but now they have in the great totalitarian states become worshipped and exalted till truth is labeled a "wrecker," its riches confiscated and destroyed, and its substance twisted and tortured and killed.

The busy knout and castor oil manipulators pay a constant tribute to the wisdom of the dogmatic pessimist. Each groan from the whipping post sounds a note which fits perfectly in the pessimist's symphony of degradation. Every intestinal spurt of blood from the castor oil victims paints an awful letter in the pessimist's essay on the utter degeneracy of man. Each windy, gilded blast from the dictatorial balcony is a firm brick in the structure of the temple of the lie. Each yes-man who with the memory of the agonies of the unbelievers fresh in his mind, pledges allegiances to perverts and madmen, joins the blind legions of the damned.

Sadism has long been a common perversion. Only now has it taken the form of a national occupation. Young men of the party lust in the persecution of the Jew or of the few men with nobility and bravery enough to resist the ultimate debauchery of mind and soul that is raised with the acclaim of the foot-kissing multitude to the grand throne of national unity. Little boys and girls learn with the first words they read to hate Jews, to hate Communism, to hate capitalists, to hate fascists, to hate, hate, hate. Then they learn to gratify the demands of this hate by either the most vicious punishments or by war. The grand aim of the totalitarian states, the glorified object of otherwise drab existences, is war. The noble, glowing purpose that men strive and starve for is war, ultimate triumph of the most debased of perversions, sadism.

For a time before the World War, when all the great nations but Russia were democracies, it seemed as though the thinking man had come into his own as the rightful ruling power of the nations. The days of the all-powerful generals seemed receding in the past with the theory of the divine right of kings. No longer did brute force as inevitably wield the scepter of power as in the animal world. It seemed that if the world kept up its progress in democracy there might come a time when right could make might. Then after the great war the peoples of the now totalitarian states were exhausted, depressed. There wasn't enough food. The governments failed to meet their problems. Demagogues arose and were welcomed for their promises. They demanded national unity and national unity came to be a pagan god that ruled as treacherous and cruel as a tartar chieftain.

All the facts that are given above seem to bear out the argument of those who claim man is not and will not be any higher creature than he was before the Caesars. Where can be found the answer to this distasteful tenet? Some might say in the wonderful progress in science and knowledge. But what value progress in science that is perverted to demonstrate its power in the concentrated horror of bombs intended to blow non-combatant women and children to bits? What value science that coordinates all the faculties of the nation in preparation for "der tag" that must come, when farmers and workers of different nations face each other in killing? The answer is not in the wonderful progress of science, unslowed by ideologic changes.

The answer to the pessimistic accusations of the world is found in the great democracies. America holds more promise than others because it is a greater, richer, safer and freer democracy than any other on earth. Here freedom of thought and action reign. Truth is exalted in spirit though lies still have a tremendous practical advantage National unity is not won at the price of liberty, but rather is a result of liberty, dearly prized and zealously guarded. The march of science has as its goal a better life and its perversion to the methods of destroying life are not in this country a glorified national purpose, but an abhorred evil, necessitated by the disordered world without. America's recent great efforts to benefit the under-priviliged and the nation's tremendous enthusiasm and absorption in these efforts, present a bright contrast to the assiduous national sharpening of the fascist swords. America, firm in assurance of birth and growth in freedom, gloats on no past baubles of empire, nor visions empires grander than the intellectual and social empires of freedom. Here in our country is the hope of the world.

COUNTY TEST FOR CRUSADER PRIZE APRIL 8

The Nevada county championship in The California Crusaders' public speaking contest on the subject "American Citizenship — And What It Means To Me" will be decided April 8 in the auditorium of the Grass Valley high school.

The contest will bring together representatives from Nevada City high school, Grass Valley high school and Meadow Lake Union high school, Truckee. The winner of the contest will receive a gold medal and will represent Nevada county in the semi-final round of competition, the regional meet which is to be held at Marysville on April 19.

A new award was added today to the list of prizes. The speaker winning third place in the final contest will be given a week's vacation at Soda Springs on Highway 40, and will enjoy the right of inviting an adult companion as his guest. A vacation trip to Hawaii will reward the contest winner and second place carries with a week's stay at Camp Curry in Yosemite Valley. Gold cups will be awarded the other finalists. The contests are open to the public.

A CAPELLA CHOIR OF SACRAMENTO SINGS FOR CLUB

The A Capella Choir of Sacramento Junior College yesterday sang for the Rotary club. Michael Brickley, of the junior college faculty, was in charge of the program, Miss Shields, director of the choir led the student singers in their delightful series of songs. Many of the Rotary members of both Grass Valley and Nevada City clubs brought their wives to the special treat provided by these talented and excellently trained singers.

Among the songs were a Christmas carol, from Russia, in which the singers approximated the tones of Yuletide bells, a Czechslovakian folk song of a peasant farmer whose ox wain had mired in the mud, an old German folk song, a Negro spiritual, and other songs that altogether were charming and delightful.

The choir sang yesterday in Roseville, Nevada City, Grass Valley, and then on the way home later in the afternoon, they sang at the Lady Jane Manor for Mr. and Mrs. Harold Robinson who had invited them to pause there while enroute to Sacramento.

Miss Shields and the singers were heartily encored after each delightful number. Mr. Brickley stated that in each department of the Sacramento Junior college it was the endeavor of the faculty to make the acheivement measure up to that of the musical department, the excellence of which the club had presented a charming exhibition.

FOREMAN HOME REMODELED

Bert Foreman, manager of the Tahoe Sugar Pine Lumber company plant in this city, is remodeling his home at the city limits on the Willow Valley road. A fire place is being built into the large living room and many changes made for convenience and beauty.

The lumber company has also sold materials to Mrs. E. W. Skehan of Coyote street who is changing her home over into two apartments.

FOREST SERVICE MEN MAKE SNOW SURVEY ON SKIS

Leland Smith of the grazing division of the local Tahoe National forest, and Ranger H. I. Snider of Truckee went out Tuesday to make a snow survey at Wabeno Corral, French Meadows and The Cedars. It is a 16 mile trip on skiis and tests of water content of snow, is being made. Superintendent DeWitt Nelson left yesterday to meet them at Wabeno Corral.

Today Messrs. Nelson, Smith, J. E. Sowden are in the Big Bend section. They are accompanied by District Ranger A. Hodgson from the Big Bend camp. The snow survey is a periodical one made in cooperation with the State Division of Water Rights. A long metal tube bores into the snow and the depth is measured. The tube is weighed before and after the snow is lifted from the hole giving content of water.

D. A. Spears, engineer from the San Francisco who was at Michigan Bluff on location survey, was ordered to Los Angeles after the floods to make a flood damage rehabilitation survey. Assistant Staff Engineer G. E. Mitchell and A. G. Schoffield, truck trail locator, are to continue with the work at Michigan Bluff as soon as conditions permit.

ELZA KILROY IS BACK IN P. O.

Everyone who knows Elza Kilroy, senior clerk in the local postoffice, will be glad to learn that he goes back to his old post this morning after an illness of fifteen months. It was on the 12th of January, 1937 that Kilroy was seized with a heart attack while driving his car down to the postoffice from his home on Lost Hill. The car went over the bank when he fainted and he suffered critical injuries as the result of the car overturning. Elza Kilroy for many years has been in the front rank of public spirited citizens of Nevada City. He has put his shoulder to the wheel times without number whenever there was a community enterprise that needed help. Probably no citizen has a wider acquaintance or more warm friends than Elza Kilroy. The entire community will be glad to know that he has now recovered almost completely from both the accident and the malady which forced him to take the long vacation from the postoffice.

BLOCK N. C. DINNER

The Nevada City High School Block N. C. is giving a dinner Thursday evening for the members of both the football and basket ball teams of whom some of the outstanding players were Cliff Hoff, Karl Kopp, Hershal Lotz, Melvin Clark, Bud King, Edith Doolittle and Phil Angove. The men of the faculty will also be guests. Miss McKnight and her Home Economics classes have complet charge of preparing and serving the dinner and an elaborate menu has been planned. Bill Molthen block N. C. president and Coach Barron will preside over the banquet.

STATE ASKS FOR FEDERAL FUNDS FOR TRANSIENTS

The State Chamber of Commerce today requested California's congressmen and Senators to work for enactment of legislation calling for Federal assistance in the care of transients.

Letter sent to the California delegates by the State Chamber stated "the principle of federal participation in the care of non-residents should be supported, provided a reasonable period of continuous self-support is required before residence in California can be gained under the terms of any program of federal participation in this support of non-residents."

Stating that the bill in its present form, althouh sound in principle, fails to safeguard California's interests, the State Chamber urged the following amendments: (1) If such aid is granted by the federal government to needy transients in California, the time during which aid is received shall not be counted toward legal residence in California, making them eligible under existing state relief statutes.

(2) Aid granted in California shall not be greater than the aid granted in the state from which the transient came.

(3) Transients shall be required to have at least three years' residence in California before being eligible to county aid under California laws.

Legislation granting federal aid for transients is now pending in Congress in H. R. 9256, introduced by Congressman H Jerry Voorhis, California.

Funeral services will be held in the Masonic Hall in Camptonville this afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. H. H. Buckner officiating. Interment will be made in the Camptonville cemetery. Holmes Funeral Home has charge of funeral arrangements.

CCC ENROLLEES HOLD OPEN HOUSE

The open house being held by CCC camps in the west from March 25 to April 6, is drawing many visitors to Camp Grass Valley where they are courteously shown about the grounds and entertained by the boys and staff officers. Camp Bradley in the mountains west of Colfax is in an isolated spot and not very many have gone to the camp.

However, last week end the boys gave a farewell party to a group of 60 enrollees who are leaving soon, putting on a splendid program. A special dinner was prepared in their honor, the camp band played many musical selections and three reels of moving pictures were shown. After that a group of the boys splendidly portrayed a playlet, "The Office Boy". Mr. C. M. Gwin who was at camp during the event was quite pleased with the affair given by the boys.

ENGLEBRIGHT LIKELY TO BE HOUSE LEADER

The Washington Merry-Go-Round, a nationally syndicated column on inside Washington news, last Tuesday carried the following laudatory comment on Congressman Harry Englebright of this district.

"Representative Harry Englebright, California's able and popular Republican whip, is an almost certain successor to House Floor Leader Bert Snell when the pudgy New Yorker steps out, or is forced out, of his post."

Englebright, who recently announced his candidacy for re-election has many times been favorably written of in nationally renowned columns.

With Blunderbusket, Sword of Mercy and Hewgag, Clampers to Arrive Tomorrow

The gathering of the Clampers in Nevada City tomorrow will be one of the notable events to record in municipal history. George Ezra Dane of the Yerba Buena chapter of E Clampus Vitus has especially asked that all documents, publicity, etc, pertaining to this event be collected. Fulmer Mood and Edgar Jessup, San Francisco attorneys will be here to undergo the rigorous tests that are imposed before the door to the Hall of Ovations opens upon the brethren seeking the light.

Adam Lee Moore, Grand Clampatriarch of the Order is coming to Nevada City with Lee Stopple, one of the clampers of Yerba Buena. The Grand Clampatriarch of the order will sign the four-by-ten-foot charter which is now being gorgeously illuminated.

Harry Furlong of Auburn who has been one of the foremost revivers of the old Argonaut order, stated yesterday that the team which will confer membership on the new William Bull Meek chapter of Deer Creek Diggings, is practicing with dumbbells and weights, boxing gloves and wooden horses for a strenuous evening.

When the Hewgag sounds tomorrow night in the great Hall of Ovations, fifty poor blind brothers or more will find the light, the darkness in which they have wandered will be lifted and they will be properly initiated into the mysteries of the great universal male order which Father Adam founded before he left the Garden of Eden.

The very stage that William Bull Meek drove between Downieville and Nevada City behind four prancing horses will be used tomorrow afternoon and evening to convey some of the visitors from San Francisco and other cities around Grass Valley and Nevada City. There will be a delegation of fifteen Clampers and acolytes from San Francisco. Delegations are coming from Sacramento and Marysville and a score or more from Auburn, including those who bear the Sonorous Hewgag, the mighty Sword of Mercy and the colossal Blunderbusket.

A group of Nevada City and Grass Valley men will be hosts to the San Francisco and other visitors at Bret Harte Inn at lunch. Following luncheon will be the stage coach tour of the historic spots in the twin cities ending at Armory Hall for libations and conversation until the 7 o'clock dinner at the National Hotel. After the dinner all Clampers and prospective initiates will repair to the Hall of Ovations for the evening's impressive ceremonies and august ritual.

The decorating committee consisting of H. E. Kjorlie, Walter Carlson, Joe O'Neill and Elza Kilroy have arranged for one of the most complete exhibits of 49er relics and antiquities ever gathered together in Nevada County. Clifford Warner, Nevada City artist, will display many of his prints, photographs and paintings. Negotiations are in progress for having on display the grand old hearse which North San Juan cherishes as one of the most formidable and inspiring antiquities of pioneer times.

SHERIFF ORDERS PICKETS SHANTY TAKEN OFF ROAD

Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen has notified the CIO-communist organization of this city that it must remove the picket's shanty from the right-of-way of the Red Dog road, a county highway. He stated he would give them a reasonable time to comply with the order. He states that they never obtained permission to erect it on the county right-of-way and that he is without authority to grant such permission.

Sheriff Tobiassen also ordered the pickets to desist in the use of signs on county property and commanded a property owner on the Red Dog road to remove "for rent" signs from the road near his property. The sheriff objected to the practise of the picketers having boys and girls of school age sitting along the road as the miners go to work, and shouting "Scab."

The picketers were warned that if they did not move their tent and signs off the county's property the sheriff and his deputies would remove them.

SUNRISE SERVICE TO BE HELD EASTER SUNDAY

The Easter Sunrise Service will be held at the Nevada City Airport as has been the custom in past years. The Methodist and Episcopal churches of this city combine in sponsoring the beautiful and pleasant custom of greeting the new Easter Day with reverent ceremonies as the sun rises over Banner Mountain.

The big cross that in the past has stood at the site of the early morning services has fallen apart and will be replaced by a new one and will be constructed by the Nevada City works department, with lumber donated by the Nevada County Lumber Company.

Easter Sunday is April 17. Special songs will be sung by choirs of both churches.

STATE SUPREME COURT DECLARES CHALLENGE VOID

The California State Supreme Court last Monday handed down a decision approving the Appelate Court's decision in the matter of unseating a judge by pre-emptory challenge. The Appellate Court had ruled that the pre-emptory challenge was null and void. The ruling by the Supreme Court has a direct bearing on the case of the six alleged Murchie rioters in that Defense Attorney George R. Anderson had attempted to disqualify Superior Judge Raglan Tuttle by the pre-emptory challenge, now finally declared unconstitutional. The result of the decision is that Judge Tuttle will try the case of Vassion, Yuen, Staten, Spear, Circle and Zdrich, charged with rioting on the Red Dog road near the Murchie mine January 20.

The next step in the case will be the selection of a panel of jurymen. The case has so far been characterized by the utilization of every legal resource and technicality by the defense lawyer, George R. Anderson, a well known lawyer of San Francisco, and by an outbreak of the unlawful practice of attempting to influence the court by means of postcards and telegrams from sympathizers with the six defendants.

ELKS GIVE BINGO PARTY TONIGHT

Tonight the Elks will hold their Bingo party introducing the game that has proven to be one of the most popular pastimes of the day. Friends and ladies are cordially invited to attend. There will be no admission charge nor charge for food. A good time is promised all who attend. The entertainment committee has made preparations for a large crowd.

The many friends of Fred Tredennick will be pleased to learn that he has so far recovered from his operation that he has been removed from the Sutter hospital to the home of his daughter in Sacramento.

The Way Of Dictatorship

One of the outstanding lessons the world has learned from dictatorships is this: No dictator can force himself into power and stay there so long as his people retain free speech and free, uncensored, newspapers.

Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin, and all of their lesser imitators learned that. But now Hitler, fresh from his Austrian conquest, is irritated by comments of newspapers in free countries. So he proposes international treaties establishing official government control of all newspapers. What he means is this: "You see that your newspapers say only nice things about me and I'll do the same for you."

Up speaks Dr. Carl W. Ackerman, Dean of the Pulitzer School of Journalism at Columbia University, a lifelong student of newspapers and their problems and duties. After pointing out that such a treaty would require amendment of the American Constitution, he adds:

"I consider these developments so ominous that I think the foreign press policy of the German government should be fully explained and earnestly studied. If government control of the printed and spoken word is a requirement of peace with Germany, we should know the conditions now and not later.'

Hitler's plan doubtless suits some Americans. A United States Senator said in a radio speech the other day that 98 per cent of America's city newspapers are biased. What he meant was that they did not agree with him.

How different he is from Voltaire who once said: "While I might not agree with what you say I shall defend to the death your right to say it!"

Americans doubtless will agree with their own Constitution and with Voltaire rather than Hitler and the Senator, for down the Hitler-Senator road lies dictatorship.

Just Wonderin'

I wonder about spring's bright charms—
Her swift winged birds and budding flowers,
The subtile fragrance of the breeze,
The pleasant warmth of sunlit hours;
But still, it matters not at all
When gay spring comes or when departs,
For we may hold from year to year,
Her youth and beauty in our hearts.

I wonder if I have begun writing verses to spring a bit prematurely; I did that very thing during the radiant but misleading days which came to us last January, and almost immediately winter lashed out in his most masterful style and caused me great embarrassment.

I wonder why poets—good, bad and mediocre, indite so many rythmic lines to spring; on the other hand, why do so many normal people consume the seasonal output? Answers to these questions may not be at once forthcoming, but it is a fact that, at this time of the year, rhymsters compose and readers scan everything in the line of spring poetry, from the lyrically sweet and light, to the hexametrically elegant and imposing; strange though it may seem, the weather has nothing to do with the case.

I wonder at the frequency with which those who speak or write of present day events, make use of the expression, "our so-called civilization." Can it be that thinking people are beginning to distrust the veneer which differentiates us from the untutored savage? Are even the most careless among us losing faith in time revered institutions, philosophies and religions, which so far have failed to teach the natons how to conduct ther affairs with decency and order? Nauseated by the tyranny of mad despots and horrified by the unspeakable burtalities of modern warfare, are we losing sight of the eternal verities and forsaking our ideals? This we must not do; right, though for a time worsted, is not conquered; eventually it will prevail. For every ruthless ruler, there waits a Waterloo; for every trampler upon human rights and liberties—an Elba.

I wonde if you heard the program radioed from San Juan Capistrano upon the morning of March 19. Music of chiming bells and splashing fountains, quiet words spoken by the Mission padre, lovely voice of old Ramon, sweep of joyous pinions, eager cries of homing birds, children singing "Good Morning, Mr. Swallow," and the miracle had happened again; the swallows had come back to Capistrano on schedule time, as they have been doing for over a hundred years. Can you explain it? Well, neither can I.

Uncle Silas says: "I read about a hen egg which measures nine inches one way and eight the other; now I says to myself, 'if two dozen eggs like that one could be laid end to end, they'd sure beat the Lays of Ancient Rome'."

Thinking Out Loud

H. M. L.

We have been reading with interest various commentators on the present trend of Washington toward, perhaps not a dictatorship, but a very much centralized form of Federal government, on the present Reorganization bill which throws tremendous power into the hands of the President, and on its effect on the Forest Service in which we, in Nevada County, have an immediate interest.

Amos Pinchot in a recent open letter to the President especially calls attention to what can happen to the Forest Service, in case this Reorganization bill is adopted. Pinchot writes:

> As an example of how we may expect the administration to use its power of transfer, if your bill, or one like it, were enacted, let us take the case of the Forest Service, a very efficient agency which for years has been located in the Department of Agriculture, where the conservation policy is faithfully adhered to.
>
> The Forest Service was organized by a great public servant and the tradition he left behind him remains strong to this day. Yet, the Brownlow Report, which you so heartily endorse, recommends that government lands and natural resources, now in charge of the Forest Service, shall be transferred to the Department of the Interior, where a thoroughly bad tradition has prevailed, and where almost anyone, with a strong political pull, has been able to get about what he wants from the government.
> It should be remembered that, long ago, President Theodore Roosevelt, with the consent of Congress, transferred the National Forests from the Interior Department to the Departmet of Agriculture, for the very reason that he could not trust the Interior Department to guard and admisister them properly. Your bill now proposes to turn the National Forests back to the department where, like the oil resources, they were in constant jeopardy.

By and large we have not been especially opposed to a reorganization of our vast bureaucracy that has been increased by about 30 per cent since President Roosevelt entered office. On the contrary we believe that a thorough going reorganization is necessary. But we had hoped that it could be accomplished without giving into the President's hands (any President) the power which this particular Reorganization bill proposes to do. We had hoped that Congress would safeguard its own powers as defined in the Constitution, that there would be a firm insistence on retaining the Comptroller's office to prevent the vast corruption that could, under such an administration for instance as that of Warren Harding, easily take place, if that office is abolished as is now proposed. The substitutes calling for an audit of governmental expenditures, after they are made, is precisely as prudent as putting a padlock on the stable door, after the horse has been stolen.

One would think that even the New Dealers would realize that the vast power they are putting into the President's hands, may not be theirs to wield. For supposing after this great machine of 900,000 Federal employes has been so constructed and set going that the President alone sits at the controls and directs its every energy, that the Republicans or Democrats (referring of course to the traditional parties and not to the New Deal) should decide that the control of the country was worth the expenditure of, say, a billion dollars, and wrested the machine from the New Deal at the next election.

This reorganization bill is really a bid to fascism. The New Deal has already so increased the powers of the President as to make his office a greater prize than any other on earth. More power resides in it than in any leadership in any other country, except the three dictaorships. The property interests of this country big and little, under the guise of saving the country from communism, can well stand a tremendous assessment to recover national power. Once the big business interests realize that the capitalistic system can be best preserved by taking over control of a machine ready built to their uses, we may indeed see something approximating a fascist government in the United States. And all the little business men, every man who owns his home, or even a car, is most likely to vote with big business. For it is one thing to build governmental machine for one man to run, and it is quite another thing to retain control of it.

CCC CAMP TO RE-OPEN

Staff Engineer W. P. Lee spent several days at the Michigan Bluff CCC camp. The camp will be re-opened as soon as possible. Due to the wet season a number of springs have developed about the camp which is in a meadow, that do not seem to have any bottom. A tractor was buried in the meadow in short order as it mired down and a hard struggle followed to recover it. Considerable money has been spent in making this a splendid camp for the CCC enrollees.

IS GOVERNMENT TO TAKE OVER ALL RAILROADS?

By DONALD D. CONN

CHICAGO, March 31.—The members of the Interstate Commerce Commission apparently believe in the eventuality of government ownership" said Donald D Conn, executive vice president of the Transportation Association of America, before the annual meeting of the Ky-O-Va Traffic Club at Huntington, W. Va., today. "They help us along that road."

"They must make a record to sustain their decision — they labored hard for four months and brought forth a mouse. A year ago they took off the surcharge when the cycle of commodity prices was upward—because the record said so. Such is the example of our cumbersome, unintelligent and restrictive regulation."

"Carriers requested short notice to publish a 15 per cent increase. This was denied. Had they capitulated and only asked for a '5 and 10' increase, no one would have doubted but what the approval of the commission would have been instantaneous."

"The commission knew full well the financial position of all types of carriers long before any hearings were held. This government body could have stemmed the tide of our greatest depression by expeditious action—but a record was necessary, and it took four months."

"Only the shipper can now save transportation from government ownership and preserve private enterprise for all other lines of business."

SPECIAL CABINETS MADE FOR FOREST LOOKOUTS

Some modern wood machinery was purchased by the Tahoe National Forest service for their local shop which has just been completed. The new equipment enables them to turn out specially designed cupboards for their nineteen forest service lookouts. They have to be arranged so as not to interfere with visibility. Cabinet Maker Rutherford Stephens under direction of Staff Engineer W. P. Lee is turning out the order. There will also be camp ground tables and cabinets for the stations.

Camp Bradley which is east of Colfax has just started making cement camp stoves, the other camps having been at the work for a short time. These stoves are moved to the tourist camps maintained by the Tahoe National Forest in the high mountains, such as one at Big Bend, and on Lake Tahoe. The camps are visited by hundreds during the summer from the valleys and cities and also tourists coming or going out of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Wright, Miss Josephine Genasci of Nevada City and Frank Wright of Sacramento spent Sunday at Lake Tahoe where ey found plenty of snow.

CAMPTONVILLE JAIL MENACED BY LAND SLIDE

CAMPTONVILLE, March 31.—One of the worst road slides in many years started Wednesday evening on the old Chinatown bank between the jail and the road from the highway into town. A huge piece of earth 30 feet back and 70 feet wide started slipping into the road and has been slowly moving until it has slipped three feet, and is gradually covering the county road. The slide contains many tons of earth and four large locust trees. It has demolished the fine concrete rock slab waterway built a few years ago by the SERA. The county has a crew of men with wheelbarrows mucking the mud out as it comes into the road. They will try to hydraulic it away.

This slide started within a few feet of the jail, another slide might take the jail into the road. The part that is slipping is where the old Chinatown stood in the early days when 500 Chinamen were among the population.

SUNFLOWER MINE

John Blair owner of the Sunflower mine west of Grass Valley, has unwatered the 100 foot shaft and is cleaning it out. Three men are employed and it is stated the crew will be enlarged as soon as weather permits. A new compressor was installed recently.

ARCTIC MINE

Walter D. Merrigan is preparing to erect a mill at the Arctic mine on Canyon Creek above Washington right away. It is expected it will be a 100 ton capacity ball mill. Mr. Merrigan has been in the employ of the Burma-Ball interests near Auburn. Work continues on the Cosmopolitan vein and it is expected development will start on another vein as soon as the weather permits. The latter vein carries values equally good as the first and was found in development in recent weeks.

GETCHELL MINE

Reports are the Newmont Mining interests have taken a 40 per cent interest in the Getchell mine near Golconda, Nevada. Getchell and Wingfield holding 60 per cent. Considerable new machinery has been installed in recent weeks, a portion of it being a refinery and roaster. About 600 tons of ore are being mined per day and an assay gave values of $6.60 per ton which is considered a fine yield.

STRIPED BASS FISHING

The Glen Cleland and George Keller clans are getting out fishing tackle and polishing up their fishing rods in preparation for a big season. They received word early this week that bass had started to run on the rivers in the Sacramento Valley.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE

The Nevada City fire department was called to the old Fisk home on Alexander street at an early hour yesterday morning to extinguish a fire that started from an oil stove which it is thought was too close to the wall. NEVADA COUNTY CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS:

Nevada county is widely known for its great gold mines, a fact which has attracted many outsiders during the depression years. Some of these people have managed to make a living by "sniping" in rivers and creeks when the water is low. During the winter and spring such people often find it necessary to apply for relief. There were, however, also several older residents on the rolls, mostly farm workers, and a few skilled workers.

Local authorities had great expectations of the WPA program, and submitted applications for several complicated building projects. WPA officials were opposed to such an ambitious program under the circumstances, but agreed to open some of these projects after the sponsors had been made to understand that the WPA might be forced to withdraw its participation any time. It is now generally recognized that only work of a much simpler nature should be undertaken with the available labor. There is an abundance of highly desirable work which can be done in the utility field, and projects of this kind have been in operation in this county during the past year.

Women's and Professional Projects

In Nevada County very excellent assistance has been given to the County Library by way of much needed repairs to the books and records held in this library; as well as bringing up to date and into modern form the many indexes in the library. This county has enjoyed a project written for the various offices of its county administration and by the assistance of WPA workers many old handwritten records and documents have been copied by type into fine records books which will remain useful for many years.

This county is very loud in its praise of the very fine work of indexing and filing, as well as the typing of records that has been done in the various offices of its new county building.

In the county library of Nevada county, an extensive project of repair and indexing has been carried on.

We are attaching a tabulation showing the amount and type of work done in Nevada county.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

By MARY MARTZ

The seniors with Edna Uhrig, captain, defeated the sophomores under Marilyn Chapman Monday evening with a score of 24-22. The game was one of the best played girls games this year. The score was tied and in the very last seconds of play the seniors succeeded in making the basket for the extra points. These are the first inter-class basket ball games ever played by the girls. The girls have enjoyed them greatly and Miss Petersen the physical education teacher deserves much credit in the organization of the teams.

OLDER GIRLS CONFERENCE

The delegates to the Older Girls Conference, Edna Uhrig, Alice Graham, Rachel Horner, Edna Richerson, Edna Doolittle, Helen Provine, Lucy Proctor, Virginia Carney, and Mary Martz will spend the week end of April 2 and 3 at Richardson Springs. Miss McKnight, Girl League advisor will accompany the girls. The conference will consist of delegates from the high schools in Northern California. There will be many discussions of problems of the American girls, pertaining to society, education and various other interests. Virginia Carney has been nominated for vice president of next years conference. Election will take place at the conference and everyone hopes Virginia Carney will be chosen. This conference for Older Girls is one of the most inspirational and splendid gatherings for the high school girls.

Ed Conley went to Placerville yesterday and returned to Nevada City with his wife and daughter, Miss Mavis Conley, who have been spending some time there. They will make their home in this city. The family left here last summer and their many friends in this city will be pleased to see them return.

Members of the Ladies Missionary Society of the Methodist church will give a Missionary Tea Wednesday afternoon. A short business meeting, Lenten offering by members, a short skit and special singing will complete the afternon. The playlet will be "A Day of Memories" and many members will take part.
